1 on the CHRISBOSH.COM domain name was a standard pay-per-click ("PPC")
2 parking page. These web pages are designed to look like a search engine to fool
3 unsuspecting internet users. However, instead of producing legitimate search results,
4 every time one of the links is clicked, the owner of the domain name is paid a click-
5 through fee. The links are similar to "sponsored links" which appear on search
6 engines like Google and are keyed to the terms searched on ("keywords") through 7 programs like Google's AdWords. For example, if you searched for "shoes" on 8 Google, whichever entity bid the highest amount through AdWords that it would pay
9 for a user who clicks on a sponsored link to be directed to its website, gets first 10 placement among the sponsored links. The Google AdWords program is also
11 accessible on the back end to generate PPC links on other websites besides Google's
12 home page. In fact, almost all of the links on PPC parking pages like the one that was 13 posted on CHRISBOSH..COM are generated by accessing Google's AdWords
14 program and are keyed to particular search terms.

15       3. Many internet users assume that the official website for a company, 16 brand or celebrity is located at the company, brand , or celebrity's name followed by 17 ".com". Similarly, when internet users search for information on the internet, they 18 frequently type in "www." followed by whatever it is they are looking for, followed 19 by ".com". This phenomena is known as "direct navigation." As a result of this 20 phenomena, it is increasingly common for third party bad actors, or "cybersquatters,"
21 such as Defendant, to register domain names identical, including, or confusingly
22 similar to trademarks or celebrity names in order to drive traffic to the domain names
23 where PPC parking pages are posted and thereby generate revenue at the expense of 24 the trademark owner or celebrity's goodwill.

25       4. I then proceeded to check the official registration information ("WhoIs")
26 for CHRISBOSH.COM at the website of the registrar of record for the domain name, 27 GoDaddy.com, Inc. The WhoIs listed the owner of the domain name as 28 HOOPology.com, P.O. BOX 59646, Norwalk, California 90652 with an email address

Winston & Strawn LLP
333 South Grand Avenue
Los Angeles, CA 90071-1543

1 of lmzavala@hotmail.com. A screenshot of the WhoIs as of that date is attached as 2 Exhibit B.

3 5. On July 7, 2008, I sent a letter by courier to the physical address listed in 4 WhoIs for CHRISBOSH.COM and by email to the email address listed in WhoIs for 5 CHRISBOSH.COM, lmzaval@hotmail.com. This letter is attached as Exhibit C.

6 6. The same day, I received back an email from the lmzvala@hotmail.com 7 email address stating "I have no intentions of handing over my domain. I am not in 8 the business of giving domains away." This email identified the owner of the 9 lmzavala@hotmail email address as Luis Zavala and he email was signed "Luis." This 10 email is attached as Exhibit D.

11 7. I performed an internet search for "Luis Zavala" using Google and 12 discovered a blog post by "Luis Zavala (<http://www.HOOPology.com>)" wherein 13 Defendant states "I have hundred's of domains and myself do Traffic monetization, it's 14 a great source of income for domains that are just parked." A screenshot of this blog
15 post is attached as Exhibit E.

16 8. I then performed a search for domain names registered with the 17 lmzavala@hotmail.com email address using DomainTools.com, a recognized provider
18 of domain name registration information. The search returned 778 domain names,
19 almost all of which were identical to the names of well-known professional athletes,
20 college athletes, high school athletes, celebrities, and various other entertainment
21 properties. A list of these domain names revealed in the search, along with a brief
22 explanation of the relevance of the name is attached as Exhibit F.

23 9. Plaintiff Christopher Bosh filed suit against Defendant on July 24, 2008
24 under the cybersquatting provisions of the Lanham Act.

25 10. Plaintiff responded by changing the WhoIs information and utilizing a
26 privacy service to conceal his ownership of the CHRISBOSH.COM domain name. A 27 printout of the official WhoIs information obtained on August 14, 2008 is attached as 28 Exhibit G.

1       11. Defendant did not file an answer and Plaintiff obtained a default
2 judgment against Defendant for statutory damages, interest, and attorney's fees in the 3 amount of $113,020.62 and a permanent injunction ordering Defendant to 4 immediately transfer the CHRISBOSH.COM domain name to plaintiff and
5 permanently enjoined Defendant from committing further cybersquatting,
6 infringement, dilution, unfair competition, or any other use of the Chris Bosh name.

7       12. Defendant responded by transferring the CHRISBOSH.COM domain
8 name to Rebel.com, a domain name registrar located in Canada in violation of the 9 Court's order in a clear attempt to circumvent the Court's authority and continue to 10 use the CHRISBOSH.COM domain name and infringe Plaintiff's rights.

11       13. Plaintiff obtained a revised order from the Court directing Verisign, Inc.
12 the official registry of all .com domain names which is located in this district, to 13 transfer the CHRISBOSH.COM domain name to Plaintiff and Plaintiff was able to 14 recover the domain name. However, Plaintiff has been unable to collect a single cent
15 of the $113,020.62 in statutory damages, interest, and attorney's fees from Defendant
16 because of difficulties in locating Defendant.

17       14. There is a significant risk that absent court order preventing it, Defendant
18 will transfer, or change the WHOIS registrant information relating to his domain name
19 holdings. This is because generally speaking, WHOIS ownership and registration
20 information can be changed at any time by the registered owner or someone working 21 on the registered owner's behalf. To change an ownership record - or even a series of 22 ownership records - all a registered owner needs to do is log into their account with 23 the independent registrar through which they processed the corresponding registration,
24 go to their owner profile, and input new information. Registrars typically do not 25 verify that WHOIS ownership and registration information pertains to an actual 26 person or entity, much less to the person or entity that actually owns or controls the 27 domain name.

1       15. The world headquarters of Verisign, the sole registry for all .com and .net
2 domain names is located at 487 East Middlefield Road, Mountain View, CA 94043,
3 which is located in the Northern District of California.

Re: Your Misuse of CHRIS BOSH in <chrisbosh.com>

Dear Mr. Zavala:

We represent Chris Bosh, in certain of his intellectual property matters. This letter concerns your misuse and infringement of the CHRIS BOSH name.

As you are no doubt aware, Chris Bosh is a professional basketball player with the Toronto Raptors. Since his NBA career began, he has emerged as one of the most established young stars in the NBA. He is a three-time NBA All-Star, has been named to the All-NBA team, appeared for the USA National Team, and taken over former fan-favorite Vince Carter as the face and leader of the Raptors franchise. In the 2006-07 NBA season, Bosh led the Raptors to their first NBA Playoffs berth in five years, and their first ever division title. The following season, Bosh became Toronto's all-time leader in rebounds, blocks, double doubles and free throws made and attempted. Off the court, Chris Bosh is noted for his philanthropy and active community service. In recognition of his own childhood experience, he set up the Chris Bosh Foundation to help promote sports and education amongst youths in Dallas and Toronto, and regularly speaks to youths about the benefits of reading. Through Chris Bosh's status as an NBA player and his long and successful efforts on and off the court, the CHRIS BOSH name has earned worldwide fame and recognition in connection with our client. Attached as Exhibit A is a printout of the official Chris Bosh website at <<http://www.chris-bosh.com>> prominently featuring the CHRIS BOSH name.

It has recently come to Mr. Bosh's attention that HOOPOlogy.com has registered the <chrisbosh.com> domain name. Attached as Exhibit B are the WHOIS details for this domain, which evidence your unauthorized registration of the <chrisbosh.com> domain name. Attached as Exhibit C is a printout of the website at the <chrisbosh.com> domain name. Exhibit C evidences your commercial use of the domain name to divert Internet users searching for our client to a website featuring links such as "Chris Bosh" and "Stats." When Internet users click on these links, looking for information about our client, they are directed further into your website which features a collection of pay-per-click links, which generate revenue for you when clicked. Exhibit D is a screenshot of the web page displayed when visitors click on the “Chris Bosh” link. Exhibit E is a screenshot of the web page displayed when visitors click on the “Stats” link. Exhibits B, C, D and E evidence your commercial use of the <chrisbosh.com> domain name in a manner that is likely to cause consumer confusion as to the source or sponsorship of the goods and services offered in connection therewith.

The offending domain name is identical to the CHRIS BOSH name. Accordingly, registration and use of the confusingly similar <chrisbosh.com> domain name violates Mr. Bosh’s rights in his name under United States law. Others are likely to be deceived and assume mistakenly that there is a common source of origin, affiliation or sponsorship of your goods and services with Mr. Bosh based upon the misuse and unauthorized use of the CHRIS BOSH name as set forth above. This apparent misuse and unauthorized use constitutes cybersquatting and cyberpiracy under the Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (“UDRP”) issued by the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers as well as under the federal Anti-Cybersquatting Consumer Protection Act, which can result in statutory damages of up to $100,000 per domain name plus attorneys’ fees.

Accordingly, on behalf of Mr. Bosh, we formally demand that your company promptly ceases and desists from all use or intended use of the CHRIS BOSH name, and any marks confusingly similar to CHRIS BOSH. Moreover, we further demand that your company transfer the <chrisbosh.com> domain name to Mr. Bosh. To ensure prompt transfer of the domain, please unlock the domain name, provide the authorization code, and respond positively to our transfer request if required by your registrar for transfer out.

Mr. Bosh views this as an extremely serious matter that requires prompt action by your company. Your commitment to comply with Mr. Bosh’s demands via email or fax by July 16, 2008 will assist in achieving an amicable and speedy resolution to this matter. Mr. Bosh has a wide range of effective legal actions and other remedies available if your company does not promptly comply with its demands.

This letter is written without prejudice to any claim for damages or other relief that Mr. Bosh may have in the event that litigation against your company might prove necessary.

Sincerely,

Brian L. Heidelberger

Bob,

I just have to go further with this one...

I assume that your answer to QN 2 was "no" (novice domain buyers cannot tell).

Is there any way that godaddy can determine which domains are being held using add/drop? If so, how about offering a service whereby godaddy attempts to grab these domains for their customers during that small window? There may only be a slim chance, but one chance every five days sounds pretty good, and I'm sure that with your knowledge and skills you could grab a few from these wolves.

There is one in particular that I would like to get, and would gladly use such a service provided that it is not too expensive.

Dear Robert,

If a customer has a backorder request submitted for the domain name, we do try to get the domain name for the customer — sometimes we are able to do so.

Appreciate your post,

Bob

Thanks for the article. Now I understand why I come across sites like this on an almost daily basis and wondered why search engines even include them in search results when they don't have any meaningful content, just links.

I'm one of those rare Internet surfers who doesn't click on anyone's sponsored ads because from my point of view, all it does is drive up the cost to the advertisers of those sponsored ads. Click fraud is rampant - getting worse every year - and I'm certain that many, if not all, of these freeloaders you wrote about are using this add/drop scheme to make money they haven't earned.

Why do registrars even allow anyone to make a large cash deposit to begin with? I would think that (based on the facts in your article) this would send a red flag to the registrar, especially if the company making the cash deposit continually spends the money then requires it to be refunded. Something's very fishy here. The registrar must be making enough money from this scheme to make it worth their while, otherwise they would implement policies to prevent this type of abuse.

Also, does the domain name immediately become available for purchase again after the five day grace period? If so, can't the same company that "gave it up" simply keep repurchasing it and asking for a refund every five days?

ICANN should make the 25 cent fee non-refundable. This way, even if the registrant misspelled the name, they are only out 25 cents which is very reasonable, and it would help prevent this horrendous scheme you enlightened us about.

Search engine results are becoming less and less relevant because of this scheme. Google, the giant that it is (in large part thanks to those who pay to advertise in the sponsored results sections) does not care one bit that this scheme is going on because they stand to lose millions if not billions of dollars in advertising money since they only pay a portion of it to those who choose to sign up for sponsored results on their websites. Personally, I've always thought that sites that sign up for this in the hopes of making extra money actually lose integrity in my eyes. The best websites are good because they offer relevant content that is updated and added to regularly, and they do not include sponsored links which oftentimes lead to competitor's sites, anyway.

#120 South Florida web designer on Apr 23 2006, 11:49 Reply

Dear South Florida web designer,

It's not registrars that allow the large cash deposits to be made and the add drop scheme to be carried on — it's registries (ie VeriSign Registry who handles .COM and others). Also for the record, VeriSign I believe would like to see this scheme stopped but their hands are tied as it is not illegal. We need either ICANN or our lawmakers to step up and do something here.

Appreciate your post,

Bob

I think it's unfortunate this "add/drop" scheme is occurring. But, this is what happens when a market gets saturated and people scramble for a piece of the action. Either they're late to the show, or they have bad intentions from day one. Regardless, this whole scheme is a sad example of the "haves" (the registrars with the will and access) taking advantage of the "have nots" (everyone else trying to play fairly). I must say that I play fairly, back-ordering domains or registering good names and simply holding them in our account (with GoDaddy, of course!). That $9.20 is a great investment if we ever use the name or decide to sell it.

To those unscrupulous registrars: if you don't want to play fairly, you don't deserve to be that position of power. Your days are numbered.

I applaud you, Bob, for forcing the issue. Hopefully the bureaucrats will listen for once. At least we can fight back, the legitimate owners of great names, by simply continuing to register and renew them so they never get dropped!

Great article Bob,

I have hundred's of domains and myself do Traffic monetization, it's a great source of income for domains that are just parked. But the add/drop scheme is a bigger problem than we all think. Another area this scheme hurts is Backorders. Backorders are a joke now, your chances of getting a good domain are zero. Registrars grab them and check them for traffic. I also don't understand how Registrars can auction off domains before they drop. I've used TDNAM several times myself and it's a great service, but this seems wrong on so many levels.

.The add/drop scheme. How millions of .COM names are used but never ...

Luis.

Good grief, it's unbelievable how many ways people find to cheat online. Everytime I think I've heard it all I'm shocked at some new scheme going around.

(Off topic- GoDaddy is the BEST registrar. I've tried some others, didn't like them. GoDaddy is the only one for me  )

Subject: Abuse of the Add Grace Period

I've just read an article by Bob Parsons (of godaddy.com) regarding the abuse of the "add grace period" by firms that use domain names during the grace period (making money off of referral links) and then dropping the names before the end of the grace period (thus using the names for free while creating a turnover burden for registrars and interfering with legitimate businesses looking for appropriate names to use on a long-term basis). I agree that requiring ICANN's 25-cent fee to be paid up front and making the fee non-refundable may help to reduce the add-and-drop practice by making it less lucrative. I encourage you to make this change.

Hi Bob,

Your information on the add/drop scheme is very informative. Is it possible that if I miss my renewal date someone who is watching for domains to expire can just up and sweep it out from under you? Is the industry doing anything to prevent this?

P.S. How can I get one of those cool "Go Daddy t-shirts?

I'd like to see more money go to ICANN, and less go to verisign.

Lets say icann raised their fee to $1 (Non refundable), and gave less to Verisign. That would stop this business completely.

however, icann never put the .com registry up for bidding, so this wont happen. I'm pretty sure another company could run the .com registry with a lot less profit per domain as verisign. I'd love to see GoDaddy participate in that (now imaginary) bidding. I'm sure .com domains would be a lot cheaper.

#126 Even Stokkedalen \(http://www.win-vista.net\) on Apr 22 2006, 11:41 Reply

Dear Even,

First, Go Daddy will never be registry -- so don't look for us to bid on any domain name registry deal like .COM. We are dedicated to be a customer facing business.

Second, no need to raise the ICANN fee. Making the existing ICANN fee of 25 cents levied and non-refundable as soon as a domain name is registered the first time will eliminate the add drop scheme completely. The moment that happens you'll notice many more good names instantly available.

Appreciate your post,

Bob

#126.1 bob parsons on Apr 23 2006, 21:04 Reply

Hi Bob, the add/drop scheme you outline is a problem that I doubt ICANN will bother dealing with. If ICANN were run like a corporation these silly problems that are easily fixed would actually BE FIXED instead of simply going nowhere.

I am coming to the realization that the UN and ICANN are one in the same, lots of talk but inept at taking action due to their "ruling by consensus" philosophy. It's about time we INC. both of these organizations

As an aside, this you mentioned traffic monetization and how you think it is 100% fine for registers to PROFIT off MY domain WITHOUT my permission. If I hadn't registered a domain, you wouldn't be making the money off my "parked" domain, why not share what little revenue comes from parking a domain with the OWNER of the domain - 50/50 split would be fair in my opinion, I am not asking for a check, but a credit to my account would be fair to both the registrar and the domain owner.

Dear Bob,

Several weeks ago I stepped into an add/drop registrar and one of the first things I imagined was people registering 1000's of names just to assess their potential for PPC revenue, forecast yearly income, and then unload those with an inconvenient profile.
